To submit tamely to long continued, and dangerous invasions of their chartered rights on the one hand, is weak, unmanly, and unbecoming, the spirit of a free people. To rush wildly into the untold horrors of disunion on the other, would be unworthy of the high character of American citizens, subversive of the true principles of rational and constitutional liberty, and a death blow to Republican Freedom thro'out the world. While they feel, that the alarming progress of fanaticism at the north, has rendered it necessary, that the south should declare her wrongs in terms of indignant denunciation, they also bear among themselves, that unreflecting zeal for a good cause, which often leads to dangerous error. To stand up boldly for our rights, to contend for them fearlessly under the Constitution and the law, is the imperative duty of every true son of the South. To encourage a state of feeling, which leads men to think Union, may be to encourage the beginning of a revolution which can never go backwards; and revolution which can never go backwards; and to preserve the admiration of the civilized world. Though some of the causes which have led to the present convulsions of our country, were exhibited very early after the formation of the constitution, yet a half century ago, and who, with the most prophetic eye, would have unfolded the unseen pages of the future, and read to us of the exciting scenes which are now spreading from the Atlantic on our East, to the Pacific on our West? Who then would have disturbed his brain with the idea that the North would now be arraying itself against the Union and the South? That there, where the sword was first unsheathed to avenge our country's wrong, there the dagger would now be drawn to pierce it to its very heart's core ? Such scenes and such reflections as these, must make the heart of every true patriot lan-At 3 o clock, the Convention again met, and the guish and sicken. Though there was a current becommittee, through their Chairman, reported the lief at the South that the great excitement as regards slavery was gotten up only by a few evil-minded fanatics at the North, and obtained only with Northern demagogues, yet when we see the Legislatures of the Northern States, the embodiment of their wisdom and their feeling, drafting Abolition resolutions and sending them to the Governors and Legislatures of the South, does not this banish that belief entirely from our minds, and warn us that the time has come when we should unite and form some wellcontracted plan, by which we may baffle their selfish aims, defeat their evil designs, and scatter the dark cloud of disunion which seems to be gathering and threatening in our views.

In the great and important crisis which now seems to shake our country to its very centre, we are proud in view, are to hold sacred, and to keep inviolate, that mous. In this county, on the 7th inst., by M. C. Collins, Esq., Dr. John C. Broadhurst, of Long Creek, formerly of Wayne county, to Mrs. Ann Jane Henry, daughter of Edward D. She demands no rights but such as the constitution has guaranteed to her. She seeks no privileges but such as justice would give her. She only says to the coys from her borders; and as regards the lately ac-quired territory, two-thirds of the price of which was Mr. Joshua Merritt, to Miss Mary Bass, daughter of Mr. Southern blood and Southern treasure, she only asks an equal participation, and an equal participation she of right ought, and is resolved to have, so far as

But when we bring before our views the history and conduct of the North, and investigate her motives, how changed the picture. Ever since very early after the adoption of the constitution, it seems to have been her greatest pride—the very acme of her Mr. Griffith J. McRee, of Wilmington, was nomi- desire-to encroach upon Southern rights and to insult Southern institutions. What has been her conduct towards us when we would demand of her our alternate to Hon. Rob't Strange; and Thos. Junius runaway slaves? Did she, in obedience to the constitution, deliver them up, like a high-minded, loyal people? No; she not only set at defiance that constitution which she solemnly pledged herself to abide by, but she has abused us in the most insulting manner. Congress after Congress, she has made the halls of our National Legislature ring with petitions, to make the general government an agent to deprive ties which adorn the wife, mother, and child, were the chathe South of her rights, and to bar her participation in our lately acquired territory. When we see such feelings as these manifested in our Northern brethren, this beautiful fabric of our Union seems to lose many of its charms and much of its attraction .--Though we thus speak of the North as a whole, yet we believe we have some true friends there ; -some who cherish the Union, venerate the constitution, and will defend the rights of the South; but they are a few honorable exceptions to the general character. It must now be manifest to every discerning mind that the motives which the North would have the ies sent to our Senators and Representative from this world believe were actuating her in her conduct as regards slavery, are not pure; that her sympathy for the better condition of the slave is nothing but hypocrisy; that if slavery be a sin, she is guilty of Corn 53c. per bushel.
